GRADual for Rome Use

298

Italy, probably Siena; late 15th cent.

JLP

from Hankels' Cat. 820 (Davis & Harvey) Jan. 30-31, 1899

298 Manuscript. Antiphonalia. Written in Latin Black and red heavy old Gothic letter, with the musical score; Consisting of two hundred and forty leaves (480 pages), of vellum, with numerous large and small capitals in red and blue.

Large folio (22 by 15¾ inches), old leather an wood, with copper bosses and ornamentation. Sæc XIV

Unique and extraordinary specimen of a Fourteenth Century Antiphonalia. The opening initial letter is a large "H" in gold and colors. Some of the leaves are torn and mended.

The binding offers a curious specimen of genuine fourteenth century copper work, pierced metal of Gothic design. At the corners are trefoil ornamentation in old copper, which also surrounds the sides. Frequently repeated are the "Agnus Dei," the "I H S" with cross, "St. John" with letters "M. B.," a Saint with letters "X X" and various letters repeated several times. On the back and edges of the binding are twenty-seven copper nails.
